CURTIN ON PRESIDENTIAL ISSUE.

We have authority for stating that as soon as the Ex-Minister's health will permit he will state his views on this important question, and in view of the Governor's feeble health we trust that there will not be any undue anxiety manifested. The news boys of our office are vigilant and they will be in possession of the news at the earliest possible moment. As an evidence of their enterprise, we would state, that they have erected several pyramids of empty boxes under the Governor's window and the first slip that falls they will possess, and in ten minutes thereafter, we shall have out a gilt edged extra. Be patient—wait.

WITHIN thirty-six hours after the result of the election in Pennsylvania was known, the Liberal Republicans of Philadelphia shut up shop. The headquarters on Walnut street above Ninth, says the Philadelphia Bulletin, were dismantled in a hurried, tumultous manner, the flaming portraits of Greeley and Brown which adorned the big plate-glass windows were removed, and there was a stampede of the few forlorn visits, after which the house was closed. There is now no more deserted and abandoned looking edifice in Philadelphia than that in which Col. McClure used to sit and cipher the election of Buckalew and Greeley, and whence he issued those high-sounding addresses that were to revolutionize the country. The Colonel and his followers are sadly to be pitied. They are without a party and without a headquarters.

THE ILLEGAL VOTE.

Our Democratic friends, some of them at least, who are quite a good deal piqued because the intelligent verdict of the people has again been pronounced against them, have placed themselves on the very dome of high moral consciousness in regard to the exercise of the right of suffrage, especially on the part of our republican fellow citizens. As the result of a very delicate and correct conscience, severely pricked by the fact of one R. B. Wilson who had been a respectable and worthy citizen and taxpayer in our borough for many years, and who left last spring on business but still claimed this as his residence, and had not gained any elsewhere, and returned to this place on business was here on the day of the election and offered his vote which was challenged, and on hearing by the Election Board was received, we are startled with the intelligence of his arrest on Saturday last for illegal voting. We are not a little astonished to learn that the Hon. P. G. Meek wraps himself in a cloak of self righteousness, and feeling that the laws of the land have been outraged and the rights of freemen invaded, by Wilson's offering his legal vote, constitutes himself a public informer and has Wilson arrested. On a hearing on a habeas corpus, Wilson was admitted to bail for appearance at the November sessions. The idea of Meek of Big Sandy notoriety; of the Meek, Lytle, Chambers letter, history, where by he cooked Orvis' goose; of the $1500 slice on the city building commission bill, and of innumerable consciencious and righteous transactions of a similar character, done purely out of love for the dear people, and that the laws should not be outraged, turning public informer; assuming an air of righteous indignation, and raise the alarm cry that the liberties of the people are gone because a well known, respectable citizen offers and does exercise his right of franchise. Ah Meek! it is too thin.

If you are so consciencious as to the violation of the election law, why didn't you also make information against one of your own political ilk, Dr. J. F. Larimer who voted under very similar circumstances of that of Wilson? The question in each case being one of intention of change of residence and domicil. Or even if you desired the settlement of a doubtful construction of the law on the question, why not agree a case stated for the opinion of the urt? or arrest Larimer who expects to ain here, and not arrest a man whose ent business you knew commands presence and attention hundreds of es away from here. But sufficient to the day is the evil thereof." Those o live in glass houses ought to be utious how they throw stones.

A FEW WORDS FOR REFORMERS.

The Greeleyites have been followed up so sharply by the truth that they are at a loss what to do. They opened the campaign with the plausible cry of reform, and contented themselves with general charges of corruption against the Administration. But when the people asked them to specify some act of official corruption they were dumb; and have remained so till this day. When we call a man a thief it is a simple question, and a very natural one, among fair-minded men, to ask: "What has he stolen?" If we fail to specify the act on which we based our opinion the charge reacts, and we must expect to be branded as a malicious slanderer. We have asked Mr. Greeley's friends to point out some official act of General Grant that proves him to be officially corrupt. They fail to do it. In the face of this failure are we not justified in saying that their general charge is false? If corruption exists it ought to be easy to point out the act that proves it. If the various Departments of the Government showed an increase of expenditures over former administrations our opponents might publish that fact as good evidence of corrupt management. Still, a slight increase might be reasonably expected, on account of the increased growth of the nation. Yet even this slight prop to their failing cause is denied the Greeleyites. The official records show a large reduction in the leading Departments. The incidental expenses of the Treasury, War, Navy, Interior, and Post Office Departments are less than for previous years, while the general result of an honest management of public affairs in the reduction of the national debt upward of $335,000,000 proves conclusively that no such thing as official corruption has existed in the Administration of General Grant. From time to time we have given the official statements of the various branches of the Government. These statements of themselves, without a word of comment, ought to convince every honest man that honesty and economy have characterized the present Administration. We now give another statement of the expenses of the Revenue Marine Service from June 30, 1865 to June 30, 1872, inclusive. Although the work of department has increased it will be seen that the expenses under General Grant have largely decreased. The number of vessels assisted during the last year is more than in any year before; the number of vessels seized and reported more than the total for eleven years preceding; and the vessels boarded and examined more than in any year except 1864, and nearly double the average number; more than double the average number of lives were saved during the same period. All this with the expenses largely reduced.

For the benefit of our Liberal friends who may be seeking for an item on which to base their charges of corruption we append the following exhibit of expenses:

For fiscal year ending:

June 30, 1865,	$1,229,434 64
June 30, 1866,	1,177,250 76
June 30, 1867,	1,167,125 41
June 30, 1868,	1,293,461 67
June 30, 1869,	1,185,782 26

June 30, 1871,	1,121,926 43
June 30, 1872,	936,249 81

We also append the service performed by the revenue cutters for each calendar year since 1860:

Comment is unnecessary. The facts speak for themselves, and such facts as these will bury the false reformers so deep in November that even their friends will not care to disturb them in their merited grave of political oblivion.

THE MILLIKEN PERFUME.—It is currently reported since the election that Ex-Republican Curtin has sent to Jas. Milliken, Esq., of our town for a bottle of his perfume. The "Milliken perfume" has an odor that the people "hanker" after, hereabouts, just now.

WE will publish the official vote of the State in our next issue.

HONORS TO HARTRANFT.

Rejoicing at the Home of Our New Governor—Speech of the Governor Elect.

The grandest Republican demonstration ever seen in Montgomery county took place in Norristown on Friday evening, in honor of the election of General John F. Hartranft to the Governorship. Like Berks, Montgomery has always been a Democratic stronghold, counted good for at least 1,500 majority whenever called upon. The Republicans did nobly last Tuesday, reducing the Democratic majority almost to zero, and a celebration was determined upon. Large delegations were present from Philadelphia and the neighboring towns, and the procession numbered fully ten thousand people. After parading through the streets the procession marched past the house of Gen. Hartranft, cheering him most enthusiastically. Later in the evening the Veteran Club of Philadelphia serenaded the Governor elect, when he responded in a short speech, saying:

I thank you for this hearty welcome in the name of the Republican party of Pennsylvania whose standard was given to my keeping. I am proud of the party to which I belong, and which has just now so nobly vindicated its principles, and shown that it cannot be seduced from its integrity either by newspapers or by politicians. It will be my duty to see that the true men who so gallantly stood by the colors never have reason to regret the support they have given me. I fully expected to encounter the fair and open opposition of my political opponents, but I was surprised to find that the chief weapons of my enemies were falsehoods and forgeries, and that their chief witnesses were bad men, whom it had been my official duty to assist in exposing and prosecuting. During the canvass my lips were sealed, but at last I am enabled to speak and to give my pledge that as I incurred the hostility of these men because of my efforts to protect the tax-payers from plunder, I will not cease my endeavors to compel them and their confederates to restore to the Treasury the money they have taken from it. Our victory has given us a united party. A few men who had assumed to be leaders deserted to the enemy while the battle was raging; but nobody followed them, and their going has given us peace and harmony and increased our majority. One pretends to be for Greeley, another pretends to be for Grant, and a third pretends that he don't know whether he is for Grant or Greeley; but one thing is sure, and that is, that in the hour of peril these men stepped out of the Republican party in order to defeat it, and, so far as I am concerned, I intend that they shall stay outside of it until they repent of their treason. Even then they must take their place in the rear, and not assume to lead the troops they attempted to betray.

POLITICAL BREVITIES.

——The farce of electing Buckalew is over, and the Curtin dropped.

——The side splitting farce of killing Greeley before the Curtin will be played on the 5th of November next.

——The Democrats have fallen behind the Curtin.

——Andrew Curtin has fallen behind the Democratic vote.

——Dropped, never to rise again, the Curtin.

——Meek's chicken is sick, so is Meek.

——The Democratic party is swearing at Greeley. Greeley is swearing at the Democratic party.

——Forney is swearing at Buckalew. Buckalew is swearing that Forney, Curtin and McClure defeated him.

——The Democrats are swearing at each other and demanding who struck them on the 8th inst.

——Buckalew is at home organizing the Fishing Creek Confederacy, he thinks he wont take Curtin, McClure or Forney in his Cabinet, they are poor advisers, although, Greeley will bail them for their good behavior.

THE VOTE IN PHILADELPHIA.—The official vote of Philadelphia gives Hartranft 20,437 majority; Mercur 18,826; Allen; 19,919. The average majority on the city ticket was about 14,000, Judge Briggs receiving the largest, which was 15,844. The majority for Congressmen at Large was as follows: Todd, 21,945; Scofield, 21,870; Albright, 21,942. Constitutional Delegates at Large received 21,985 majority. For the Constitutional Amendment, 21,474; against, 542. The number of votes registered was 164,000, and the number cast 118,119, of which 70,006 were Republican and 48,113 were Democratic.

In the First District Randall, for Congress, has only 1,282 majority. In 1870 he had 4,148. Myers has 4,899. In 1870 he had 1,325. O'Neil has 7,525. In 1871 he had 5,693. Kelly has 7,654. In 1871 he had 4,529.

GREELEY'S PITTSBURGH SPEECH.

What the Soldiers Have to Say About It—Letter from Gen. Burnside.

HEADQUARTERS VETERANS' COM., FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL, NEW YORK CITY Sept. 25, 1872.—To the Soldiers and Sailors who served in the Union Army and Navy during the late War—COMRADES: We, your representatives, met at Pittsburg and adopted a series of resolutions which you have already seen. You have discovered that we expressed sentiments which are entertained almost unanimously by the veterans of the country. In view of the fact that Mr. Greeley has charged us with the desire to engender feelings of hate toward the survivors of those who were in armed rebellion against the Government, we desire to reiterate our wish that all differences may be obliterated, with this one single condition, that under no circumstances will we support a man for Chief Magistrate of the nation who, in the hour of his country's greatest danger, did not appreciate the situation, and by words and acts, step forward to its defence.

We deny that one single word, either in the speeches or the platform of that Convention, justifies Mr. Greeley in the remarks which he uttered at Pittsburgh, and his entire lack of courtesy toward the soldiers and sailors who assembled there, serves to confirm us in the opinion that he is quite unfit to be trusted in any position where loyalty to his Government, a just regard for the feelings of others, and an abnegation of self is required. We believe he will live long enough to regret the slanderous utterances he made on that occasion.

It only remains for us to impress upon you the great importance of the issues which are presented to you, and to urge that you will organize throughout the entire country in harmony with the regular Republican organizations, and do all in your power to re-elect General Grant Chief Executive of the Government for four years more, and thereby complete the great work you began in 1861.

A. E. BURNSIDE, Chairman.
L. E. DUDLEY, Secretary.

THE Tribune itself begins to see that the Greeley bubble has collapsed beyond all probability of future reinflation, unless those by whose breath it was in the first place filled are able to get back their wind—knocked out of them by last Tuesday's election—without any further delay. That paper protests most earnestly against the firing which is going on between the Liberal and Democratic ranks, and loudly calls upon the members of both organizations to stop their fratricidal strife and move unitedly on the enemy; cheering them on with the observation that they have 'an impregnable basis of one hundred and twenty-three Southern votes on which to start," and assuming that, if they choose, the campaign for the next three weeks can be so ordered as to result in final victory. The Tribune evidently fears that a general abandonment of Greeley and Brown is imminent on the part of that portion of the Democracy which is not willing to see principles and organization go down ingloriously in the dust together. The only straight way of escape, however, is in exactly that direction. The results of the recent elections have shown that Greeleyism has not the ghost of a chance of success; and if the egotism of the candidate and the blundering mismanagement of his personal organ have brought into hopeless disaster the forces they undertook to lead, so much the more reason why the remaining rank and file should not submit to be slaughtered out of complaisance to Mr. Greeley's vanity and the Tribune's incompeteuce. And it is probable that a majority of its members will so consider; for this is not an age in which men will consent to be uselessly butchered in order to make a Greeley holiday.—Commercial.

THE Montgomery county papers are telling a startling tale of a kidnapped child. About one year ago a band of gypsies was encamped near Norristown, and during their sojurn, a female child, aged seven or eight years, escaped from them and took refuge at a house near by, saying she had been stolen from her parents, who lived in New Albany, Indiana. She says her name is Ella Henry that of her father Wm. Henry, who she says, was a tanner at Albany. The child is still living with Isaac Jaquett, farmer, Norristown, where she awaits her return to her parents, who have not yet been found.

Ross' majority in this District, for Congress, is about 2,500.

BROKEN HEARTED.

SAD CASE—A YOUNG GIRL DRIVEN TO DEATH BY HER PARENTS.

From the Jackson, Michigan, papers we learn the particulars of a very sad case, involving the death from a broken heart of a young lady, brought about by parental cruelty, which seldom has a parallel. A man named Randolph, residing in Waterloo, was called upon by a life insurance agent named Robert Jackson, a few months ago, and induced to take out a life policy. The insurance man was introduced to Randolph's daughter, an amiable and handsome young lady, who appeared to be greatly pleased with the new acquaintance. The girl's parents used every endeavor to throw them together, although Jackson had informed them he was a married man. The latter paid Miss Alice many attentions, asking her to ride and walk with him, etc. A few weeks ago Randolph entered suit for damages against Jackson, charging him with the seduction of his daughter. At the time this charge of criminality was made, Randolp offered to settle it, first for $2,000 and then for $1,000, but the defendant refused, asserting his innocence, and claiming that it was tried, Miss R. testifying that Jackson's conduct toward her had always been honorable. This incensed her parents, and they treated her with much cruelty, finally forcing her to leave home and seek refuge with strangers in the city of Jackson. Here she became melancholy, talking much of her troubles, and showing at times symptoms of mental aberration. The poor girl was finally brought near the point of death, and her parents being summoned to her bedside, came but refuse to stay with her. A second summons brought the family, and a heart-rending scene ensued. The dying girl asserted her innocence, beseeching forgiveness if she had done wrong in any way, and begged to be taken home to die. The hearts of the father and mother, brothers and sisters, seemed to be steeled against her, and all turned a deaf ear to her entreaties. She prayed her father but to lift her up, that she might feel his touch once more, but he was relentless, and left, the family going with him. The daughter sank rapidly after this inhuman repulse, and the next morning found her a corpse. The doctors attribute her death to grief.

CIRCULARS FROM THE STATE DEPARTMENT.

The following was issued this afternoon:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, D. C., October 11.

The undersigned is charged by the President with the painful duty of announcing to the people of the United States, the death of an illustrious citizen, Wm. H. Seward, distinguished for faithful service in varied public trust during a long series of years, who died at Auburn, in the State of New York, yesterday, October 10. Charged with the administration of the Department of State at a most critical period in the history of the nation. Mr. Seward brought to the duties of that office exalted patriotism, unwearied industry and consumate ability, a grateful nation will cherish his name, his fame and his memory. The several executive departments will cause appropriate honors to be rendered to the memory of the deceased statesman at home and abroad.

(Signed.)
HAMILTON FISH,
Secretary of State.

HON. GLENNI W. SCHOFFIELD.

[From the Philadelphia Post.]

Hon. Glenni W. Schofield, Republican candidate for Congress at large, led the Republican ticket in this city on Tuesday last, receiving 70,006 votes. This is a deserved compliment. Mr. Schofield has been a member of Congress for ten consecutive years, representing the Erie district during that period. He is one of the most able and influential members of the House, and has reflected credit on his district and State. This large vote shows that he is understood and appreciated. In his new character of representative of the people of the State, we have no doubt he will be even more efficient in the national council than he has been as representative of a single district.

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—Sarah Payson Willis, wife of James Parton, otherwise known as "Fanny Fern," died yesterday, aged sixty-one, after being in feeble health for a long time.

THE majority for D. Maclay, Republican, for State Senator, in the district composed of Armstrong, Clarion, Jefferson and Forest, is about five hundred.

The Cambria Iron Works on Fire!

ROLLING MILL NEARLY DESTROYED!

THE LIGHT MACHINERY GREATLY DAMAGED!

STEEL WORKS, FURNACES AND OTHER DEPARTMENTS UNINJURED!

LOSS ESTIMATED AT $400,000!

Employees Indicate their Devotion in a Practical Way.

THE ROLLING MILL TO BE RECONSTRUCTED IMMEDIATELY—BRIEF DELAY IN FILLING ORDERS.

[Special to the Pittsburg Commercial.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., October 13, 1872.

The rolling mill building of the Cambria works, covering about five acres of ground, was discovered to be on fire at midnight Saturday night, and although the firemen, workmen and citizens made prompt and courageous efforts, only a part of the main building and the west wing were saved in a damaged condition. The heavy machinery of the mill is not thought to be much injured, but the light machinery is greatly damaged or destroyed.

At a meeting of the foremen, at which Mr. Geo. Fritz, Chief Engineer, presided, resolutions were passed expressing their sympathy with the company and showing their devotion to its interests, by proposing that the men connected with the works should contribute a day's and the foremen a week's labor, and a large force will be at work on Monday morning clearing away the ruins to hasten the repairs.

The delay in filling orders will be but brief, as it is expected that a portion of the machinery will be running under temporary shelter in about two weeks, and the remainder soon after. The mill will be constructed of fire proof materials. The steel works, shops, furnaces and other works are safe and in operation as usual.

The amount of loss, which is heavy and partially covered by insurance, cannot be estimated now. The cause of the fire is not known, but is believed to be accidental. Several firemen were seriously injured, but fortunately no lives lost.

Special Dispatch to the Commercial.

MIFFLIN, PA., October 13, 1872.

Mr. Paul Stackhouse, Assistant Superintendent of the Cambria Iron Company, reports that their loss by fire is less severe than at first supposed, and will not exceed four hundred thousand dollars, less one hundred thousand dollars insurance. The principal rolling stock, more especially all the valuable engines, which were shielded by previous precautions, and the persistent efforts of a well regulated fire department, remain comparatively unharmed, inasmuch as by the erection of temporary coverings work will be resumed within two weeks. The works will soon be even more substantially rebuilt, almost exclusively of iron. Only the rolling mill proper is damaged. Owing to the amity of feeling prevailing between the management and workingmen, the latter have volunteered their services gratis to remove the debris, which will be accomplished within two days. These works were destroyed in 1864. The managers are already en route to Philadelphia to complete the necessary arrangements for resumption. The cause of the fire is unknown.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

WASHINGTON, October 11th, 1872.

By the President of the United States of America, a Proclamation.

WHEREAS, The revolution of another year has again brought the time when it is usual to look back upon the past and publicly thank Almighty God for His mercies and His blessings, and

WHEREAS, If any one people have more occasion than another for such thankfulness it is the citizens of the United States, whose government is their creature, subject to their behests, who have reserved to themselves ample civil and religious freedom and equality before the law; who, during the last twelve months have enjoyed exemption from any grievous or general calamity, and to whom prosperity in agriculture, manufactures and commerce has been vouchsafed.

Therefore by these considerations I recommend that on Thursday, the twenty-eighth day of November next, the people meet in their respective places of worship and there make their acknowledgements to God for His kindness and bounty.

In witness whereof I hereunto set my hand and cause the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington, this eleventh day of October in the year of our Lord, 1872, and of the independence of the United States the ninety-seventh.

OLD MEN'S GRANT MEETING.

AIR—"Benny Havens, O!"

Well, wife, we've had a meetin' at the school-house on the hill,
And I was chosen chairman, to keep the old men still;
But I found I couldn't do it; each man down his cane would plant,
And shout with all the voice he had, "I'm goin' in for Grant."

CHORUS—We're goin' in for Grant,
We're goin' in for Grant;
Then shout aloud and tell the crowd
We're goin' in for Grant.

We talked about the last four years, what great things had been done;
How the nation's debt had melted like the snow before the sun;
We said, to keep it meltin', do a better thing we can't,
Than to stick and hang together, and all go in for Grant.

CHORUS—We're goin' in for Grant, &c.

We all looked through our spectacles upon the naked facts,
Then drew the veil of charity o'er giant Sumner's acts:
We said, "We like you, Sumner, but go your way we can't"—
Then made the school-house echo with a rousing shout for Grant.

CHORUS—We're goin' in for Grant, &c.

We didn't have much charity for Trumbull or for Schurz,
They stand around the party gate, a pair of snarling curs;
Their speeches cannot harm us, nor make Grant toe the mark;
He's an old Galena tanner, and knows how to handle bark.

CHORUS—We're goin' in for Grant, &c.

We talked about Grant's smokin'; we thought it no great sin—
To vote that out of office we might vote a worse one in;
And seein' we were smokers, 'twouldn't do for us to rant,
So we lit our pipes together, and smoked the health of Grant.

CHORUS—We're goin' in for Grant, &c.

In the day of the rebellion none of us could go to fight,
But we read from morn till evening how he battled for the right;
He has been the nation's servant in the days of peace and war,
And treason melts before him like the smoke from his cigar.

CHORUS—We're goin' in for Grant, &c.

After I'd adjourned the meetin' I gave each the friendly grip;
We will not topple over, we will not even slant,
But put our canes down firm and strong, and stand up straight for Grant.

CHORUS—We're goin' in for Grant, &c.

—JOHN H. HAYES.

THE STORY-TELLER.

"DOCTOR JOHN."

"A Doctor's life is a strange one!" muttered Dr. John Hessman, as he jumped into his carriage, taking the reins from the hands of the grinning Ethiopian who, for the last twenty minutes, had been cherishing the fond delusion that he was to accompany his master on his round of professional inquiry.

"Not this time, Ebony," said the doctor, with a good natured shrug of his broad shoulders. "You can come to-morrow," noting the look of disappointment in the boy's face. Dr. John was more tender of his servants than some men are of their wives.

"Oh, never mind, Massa, never mind!", replied Ebony, like the average human, quite forgetful of annoyance when the subject of consideration was distasteful. "I knows what 'tis. I just knows what 'tis," added Ebony, as he watched the carriage out of sight. "He's got one of his spells, and wants to talk to hisself; I know him of old. If 'twas anybody but Dr. John, I should just say, 'Ebony, that man has got softening of the skull; but no such nonsense can be laid to him."

Dr. John did want to be alone, or as much alone as a man could be in the streets of a crowded city, and he did want to talk to himself. Most men who are in the habit of communing with their own souls, do it in audible language; so in this respect, whatever he might be in others, Dr. John did not differ from his brethren. A man's own opinion is not unfrequently his best and safest companion. It will keep its owner's secrets, and when the companionship is frequent, will in all cases properly guide and admonish. Self communion in its highest form is the avenue which leads directly to the heart of God.

"Yes," continued the doctor, "yes, sir." (Sometimes Dr. John was very respectful to himself.) "A doctor's life is no joke. Easy, my beauty, easy! Now, John, look at that horse. You are only just a little more of an animal than he is. It's fun for him to travel when there's another horse close by that he can outrun. Exactly the case with you, John. If it hadn't been for another horse in the shape of a doctor you were determined to get a little the start of, where would you have been to-day? That's the point. Worthy ambition, eh? to pass a poor devil on the road of life! Upon my word I believe I should be a better man if I had a wife. I rather like women; but it is a little hard to understand how a fellow manages with a woman tied to him morning noon and night. That's what takes me. Then, I am not sure that anybody'd have me that was anyways suitable. Of course, I should want intelligence, and intellectuality, too, by George! and I never could endure a plain woman, or a woman with a loud voice, or——Yes, sir, that question is in order," continued the doctor, stroking his long, silky, black beard. "That is what I call driving the nail in. What have you got, J. Hessman, to give in exchange for these royal treasures of mind and body? A good name—yes; an exceptionable position, unimpeachable integrity—yes, sir. These are something;" and here our M. D., reined up before an elegant brown stone mansion, where one of his best (pecuniarily speaking) and most fashionable patients resided. Here Dr. John was employed by the year; and although the position was no sinecure, on account of the amount of patience required to battle with the nervous fancies of the principal invalid of the establishment, still Dr. John, to use his own telling vernacular, considered it "an exceedingly soft thing"—and soft it was in more senses than one.

Dr. John walked right up into the invalid's chamber.

"Oh, good morning, doctor. A little late aren't you? Seems to me I have been waiting an unusual length of time," drawled the lady from her luxurious couch.

"About the usual hour," replied Dr. John, with no especial show of deference. "What seems to be the matter this morning?"

"Now, really, doctor, that is too cruel. Matter this, morning! Do you remember what was the matter yesterday? Please don't be so blunt. You shock my nerves terribly."

"Let me see," said the doctor. "Yesterday, according to your own admission, you were tagged out with a fashionable party and a late supper. That of course, cannot be the case to-day."

"I know I should not have attempted it in my weak state, doctor. I know just what you will think of it," sighed the fashionable woman from her downy bed. "But then you men never will understand what society demands of us women. Dear Estelle (dear Estelle was the invalid's daughter) had quite set her heart on going to Mrs. Donk's reception. Of course I could not allow the dear child to go unattended, and bless your heart, Dr. Hessman, the girl's father would not accompany her to a party if she fell dead in consequence. Oh, Lord, such a time as I did have about it, trying to induce Mr. Waters to escort her. I really believe that scene had more to do with my suffering to-day than the party had. Dear me, such a set man as Mr. Waters is! I told him—says I, "William, this may result in my death!" Says he—"When a woman gets to be forty years old, and don't know enough to take care of her own health and the health of her children, it is time she died;" and then, doctor, he lit his cigar and puffed out of the house. I tell you this because I want you to know what has so unnerved me, and that you may not lay it all to the party. Estelle is quite ill, too, doctor, and when you have written out my prescription I wish you would walk into the next room and see her."

Dr. John knew that something must be administered or his profession would be irretrievably ruined, so with a quiet smile playing around his large mouth (Dr. John's mouth was really very large, and truth compels us to state that he had an under-jaw to match, though the rows of unexceptionably white and even teeth and the silken chin-covering, glossy and soft as a woman's hair, entirely redeemed the lower part of his face from ugliness) the physician wrote the few necessary Latin words, among which aqua seemed really the most conspicuous, and then passed into the other room. The doctor knew what awaited him. This little game had been tried more than once before.

"Good morning, Miss Estelle," said Dr. John, approaching the sofa where the languid beauty reclined. "Your mother tells me you are ill."

Miss Estelle, with almost an impatient gesture, brushed back the floating hair from her temples—carelessly and really unintentionally, it would seem, baring by the motion one of the most beautiful arms that sculptor ever waved about—and replied:

"Your manner seems to say, Miss Estelle, you are always ill. Why don't you behave yourself?" "Oh, how happy I should be, Dr. John, if you would once in your life be kind to me. I do really think something is the matter with my heart. What if I should die?"

No picture of Watteau's could ever have been more witching, more charmingly colored, than the little form before him. Every accessory of toilet had been brought to bear upon the citadel of his heart—and to a handsome woman no dress is so becoming as the negligee of her boudoir, with its lace and fantastic embroidery, slippered feet and graceful posture. Then the vases filled with flowers, the mirrors, and jewels, and perfumes, and enticing lolling chairs.—Heigho! many a strong man has bowed to such a shrine—made a fool of himself for life—when in the glare and glitter of the drawing room no such nonsense would have been thought of.

Dr. John acknowledged the beauty of this picture. It was dainty, piquant, dangerous. It had been dished up for him on several previous occasions, but never so much to his mind as now. The beauty's manner was earnest and almost supplicating. What man could fail to be appreciative under such circumstances? Remember, too, that Doctor John was longing to be loved—had that morning almost prayed that heaven would send him a little bundle of comfort in the shape of a good wife, and it will not be strange that, notwithstanding the efforts previously made to entrap him, he should think only of the present loveliness.

"What are you reading, Miss Estelle?" asked Dr. John, after a moment of appreciative scrutiny. "Wilson's Essays, eh?" and the doctor's face showed all the surprise and pleasure felt by its owner. "And upon my word, if here isn't Emerson. That is healthy food, rather heavy though, I should think, for a sick girl!"

Miss Estelle drew a long breath. For the first time in the twelve months of trial had she received one single word of compliment or commendation from the man whom her mother had determined she should marry.

"And, as true as I live, another book under the pillow. Really, I have some curiosity to know the title of that volume also," continued the doctor almost caressingly.

"Oh, it is nothing," replied the would-be invalid, languidly, "but a stupid cookery book that I got from the library.—Mother depends upon me, you see, for our deserts, and I can tell you that sometimes my ingenuity is sorely tested."

One little hand tucked the volume further under the pillow, while the other, unconsciously, of course, dropped upon the doctor's. With the white, jeweled fingers lying on his, the fair dazzling face upturned, the words which would have doomed him to misery all the days of his life were almost spoken.

How wonderfully and providentially little things sometimes appear to save from desolation and death! The hand with which she had striven to hide the partially concealed volume had strangely enough, lifted the frill of the pillow and disclosed both title and author—one of the most mischievous and recklessly written books ever translated into the English language.

For a moment the doctor sat silent with horror and astonishment. Not so much that the woman before him had developed a taste for such literature, but that she could so unblushingly lie to him.

"I do not think," said he, at last, "that you need any medicine. So you have my permission to study the cookbook under your pillow as diligently as you may feel disposed. It is pleasant to know that fashionable young ladies are possessed of such domestic and literary tastes. Good morning, Miss Waters."

Dr. John passed out of that abode of luxury sick at heart.

"I came very near losing myself in that trap. What confounded fools men are!"

The thought was rather humiliating, and Dr. John was unable to shake it off during the day; and when he turned his horse's head homeward it was with a feeling of disgust and loneliness never before experienced.

"Pretty much all alike, I'm afraid," he continued softly to himself.

Just then a little figure in the middle of the street attracted his attention. A child, to all appearance not a day over five years, with uplifted arms stood, heedless of danger, looking straight in his face. Quicker than I can tell, Dr. John had jumped from his carriage, seized the little creature and place her on the seat beside him.

"You were in great danger, my dear,' said the doctor,' looking down into the singularly sweet and intelligent young face. What made you stand in the middle of the crowded street?

"Are you a doctor?" was the only reply vouchsafed.

"By profession, yes, little miss, and by name John Hessman. Have you any commands for his highness?"

"If you are a doctor, I want you to go home with me, and if you are not, please tell me where I can find one. My sister Kate is sick—awful sick—and she talks and sings all the time; and I haven't got any money—neither has she; but she will die if somebody don't come."

"I am a doctor, and will go home with you, little darling," said our friend, involuntarily drawing the sobbing child toward him. "Don't cry; I can help her if anybody can."

Before they arrived at the residence of the sick girl, Dr. John had discovered, by skillful questioning, that the child's name was Florence Britton—the sister's Kate Britton; that Kate wrote stories, and made reports, and sometimes was out late at night taking notes and preparing articles for the press, that she had not been well during the winter, and for the last three weeks had been unable to attend to her literary duties, and was now suffering from brain fever. The room which the doctor entered was plainly and neatly furnished, and bore unmistakable marks of refinement and womanly taste.

"Kate," said the little girl, climbing into the bed where her sister lay moaning with pain—"sister Kate, I have brought a doctor to see you. I found him in the street, and he says he can make you well. Look at him, Katie—he is very kind."

"Cuddle right down beside me, Flory darling. There, that's a good little girl. Go to sleep, don't mind sister Kate—she's only got a headache. Say your prayers," murmured the girl, even in delirium, thoughtful of her precious charge.

Here was a case to rouse Dr. John's energies—a case which appealed to his sympathy and respect—a case, so far as he was able to judge, of utter loneliness and destitution. So, like the good man he was, he set himself to work in good earnest. A good nurse was procured, necessary articles were brought into the house, and over all he watched as if the sufferer had been his own sister. The fourth day the invalid awoke to consciousness, and looked at Dr. John straight in the face.

"Where am I?" said she, attempting to rise.

"At home," he replied. "Please be very quiet."

"Where is Flora?"

"Asleep by your side. Don't ask any more questions."

"Who are you?" she continued, apparently oblivious to the command.

"John Hessman at your service, and at present your self-constituted physician, who will be obeyed! Now drink this beef-tea—take Flory's little hand in yours and go straight to sleep."

With a sigh of relief, a smile, a momentary attempt to keep her eyes open a little longer, and the invalid was sleeping as quietly as an infant.

Four weeks from that day, Miss Kate Britton rode out in the doctor's carriage, almost as well as ever.

Dr. John looked unutterable things, as he jumped into his gig and took his seat beside her. Very like the day a month ago when he had something particular to say to himself—only now he evidently had a communication to make to another.

"It will be safe for me to resume my writting to-morrow; will it not, doctor?" inquired Kate, the first to break the silence. "I feel better and stronger to-day than I have for a year."

"No, little girl," replied the doctor. "It will not be safe for you to resume your writting in six months!"

"Oh, doctor, you are only joking now; I know you are," said Kate, noting the look of amusement in his expressive eyes.

"No, Kate, indeed I am not joking. You shall never go back to that drudgery again, if I can help it."

The hot blood mounted clear to Kate's temples. "Dr. Hessman," she continued, assuming a business like manner, "but for you I should have been in my grave!"

"In all probability," broke in her compassion with more truth than modesty.

"Well," she continued, "you have saved my life, kept my darling little sister from starvation—cared for us both as though we had been your own kindred! But how can I ever—"

"There, child, stop right where you are. Never, if you have any regard for my feelings, allow that word to slip from your lips. I want to take you and Flory to my home, and make your happiness my care. I want a wife and a sister; will you be the first? Perhaps you don't love me exactly—but I know I can make you love me!"

"But I do love you!" said Miss Kate under her breath."

"All right, then! Will you go?"

She went.

Dr. John scarcely ever talks to himself now.

THE high rate of premium which U. S. Bonds have attained, and the consequent reduced rate of interest produced by the investment has caused investors to seek a different class of securities which will increase their income, and at the same time offer an equal guarantee for safety. There is no greater security than municipal bonds, to prove which it is only necessary to revert to the circumstances that such a thing as attempted repudiation in this line of investments has been rarely heard of. From the fact of their being issued for improvements which directly benefit the locality from which they emenate, an individual responsibility is felt in the obligation, and a personal pride taken in carrying out in good faith the agreements which they represent. The West is being developed more rapidly than any other portion of the country, and as money is more in demand than at the East, a higher rate of interest must necessarily be paid, which point, together with the absolute security of the obligations, is inducing Eastern capitalists to turn their attention in this direction. To meet the demands of investors it has become praticable to establish houses for the purpose of dealing in this specialty; and in this connection we invite our readers to the card of Messrs. W. N. Coler & Co., of No. 22 Nassau street, which appears in another column. This house has taken the initiative in this direction, and brings into the business an ample capital and large experience, which cannot fail to give satisfaction to every one who has dealings with them. The work upon the Indianapolis, Blooming & Western Railroad is being pushed rapidly forward, and the bonds are meeting with ready sale. About 60 miles are already finished, and 110 miles graded; the whole line, 217 miles, will be completed early in 1873. It is an important link in a system of more than 1,200 miles of road under one management. Its Eastern connections at Indianapolis are the Pennsylvania Central, Baltimore and Ohio, Bellefontaine, Lake Shore, and New York Central, and other roads centering at this point. From the Seaboard to the West and North-West distances are materially reduced via this system of roads; so much so that it cannot fail to be the popular line for travel and business.

THE New York Tablet, the organ of he New York Catholics, speaking of the Presidential contest, says;

As between Grant and Greeley, personally, we have already said that we prefer Grant; but as between their respective parties, we prefer the party that supports Mr. Greeley to the Republican party that supports the re-election of Gen. Grant.—How we or the proprietors of the Tablet will vote in November, is for us and them to determine, and with which we have no occasion to trouble the public. We have given our opinion of Mr. Greeley. We have no confidence in his political ability or in his political integrity, and we cannot get over our impression that his nomination at Cincinnati was a joke. He is uncertain as a politician, has a picayune intellect, no breadth of mind, and not a single statesmanlike quality. No man we know of has done more to pervert through journalism the natural good sense of the people, or exerted a more disastrous influence on the country. He is the father of the Republican party was in no small degree the cause of the southern secession and the late civil war; he has been the defender of the worst measures of the Republican party, and having failed to induce that party to gratify his ambition, he now goes back on it, and seeks the support of the party he has always opposed. Had Gen. Grant made him Post Master General, we should never have heard of him as the candidate for the Presidency of the Liberal Republicans. He is not a man we can respect.

PAIN.—Pain is never a good—cannot be a good in any sense of the word. It is emphatically an evil thing, though it may be our duty to bear it; and thought of having saved others from its endurance is, of course, a grand and noble satisfaction. If it were a good thing in itself, we should wish others to suffer it; but the satisfaction lies not at all in the pain, but in the thought of having averted it from those we love. It is one of the greatest proofs of an overruling Beneficence that love can thus snatch a joy out of the fires of agony; but we equivocate with ourselves and others if we attempt to conceal the fact that every form of pain, bodily and mentally, is evidence of an imperfect state, which we have a right to deplore, and must needs wonder at. No explanation of this portentous mystery seems possible in our present life. We must wait patiently, and see what death has got to teach us; relying meanwhile on the goodness and power of the Divine Author.

In pursuance of an act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, entitled "An Act relating to the elections of the Commonwealth," passed the 2nd day of June, 1869.

NOTICE is hereby given that the General Election will be opened between the hours of 6 and 7 o'clock, in the forenoon, and shall continue without interruption or adjournment until 7 o'clock in the evening, when the polls shall be closed.

And in and by the said act I am further directed to give notice "that every person except justices of the peace, who shall hold any office or appointment of profit and trust under the government of the United States of this State, or of any city or incorporated district, whether a commissioned officer or otherwise a subordinate officer or agent who is or shall be employed under the Legislative or Executive or Judiciary department of this State, or of any incorporated district; and also that every member of Congress and of select or common council of any city, commissioners of any incorporated district, is by law incapable of holding or exercising at the same time the office or appointment of judge, inspector or clerk of any election of this Commonwealth, and that no inspector, judge, or any other officer of any election, shall be eligible to any office then to be voted for."

The inspectors and judge of the elections shall meet at their respective places appointed for holding the election in the district, to which they respectively belong, before seven o'clock in the morning, and each of said inspectors shall appoint one clerk, who shall be a qualified voter of such district.

In case the person who shall have received the second highest number of votes for inspector shall not attend on the day of any election, then the person who shall have received the second highest number of votes for jude at the next preceeding election shall act as inspector in his place. A d in case the person who shall have received the highest number of votes for inspector shall not attend, the person elected judge shall appoint an inspector in his place; and in case the person elected judge shall not attend, then the inspector who received the highest number of votes shall appoint a Judge in his place; or if any vacancy shall continue in the board for the space of one hour after time fixed by law for the opening of the election, the qualified voters of the township, ward, or district for which such officers shall have been elected, present at such election, shall elect one of their number to fill such vacancy.

It shall be the duty of the several assessors of each district to attend at the place of holding every general, special or township election, during the whole time said election is kept open, for the purpose of giving information to the inspectors and judges when called on, in relation to the right of any person assessed by them to vote at such election, or such other matters in relation to the assessments of voters as the said inspectors or either of them shall from time to time require.

No person shall be permitted to vote at any election, as aforesaid, other than a white freemen of the age of twenty-one years or more, who shall have resided in the State at least one year, and in the election district where he offers his vote at least ten days immediately preceding such election, and within two years paid a State or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least ten days immediately preceding such election, and within two years paid a State or county tax which shall have been assessed at least ten days before the election. But a citizen of the United States who has previously been a qualified voter of this State and removed therefrom and returned, and who shall have resided in the election district and paid taxes as aforesaid, shall be entitled to vote after residing in the State six months: Provided, That the white freemen, citizens of the United States, between twenty-one and twenty-two years, who have resided in an election district as aforesaid, shall be entitled to vote, although they shall not have paid taxes.

No person shall be permitted to vote whose name is not contained in the list of taxable inhabitants furnished by the commissioners, unless first, he produce a receipt for the payment within two years of a State or County tax assessed agreeably to the Constitution, and gives satisfactory evidence either on his oath or affirmation, or the oath or affirmation of another that he has paid such a tax, or on failure to produce a receipt, shall make oath to the payment thereof. Second, if he claim the right to vote by being an elector between the age of twenty-one and twenty-two years, he shall depose on oath or affirmation that he has resided in this State at least one year next before his application, and make such proof of residence in the district as is required by this act, and that he does verily believe from the account given him, that he is of the age aforesaid, and such other evidence as is required by this act; whereupon the name of the person thus assorted to vote shall be inserted in the alphabetical list by the inspectors, and a note made opposite thereto by writing the word "tax," if he shall be admitted to vote by reason of having paid tax; or the word "age," if he shall be admitted to vote by reason of such age, shall be called out to the clerks, who shall make the like notes on the list of voters kept by them.

In all cases where the name of the person claiming to vote is found on the list furnished by the commissioners and assessor, or his right to vote, whether found thereon or not, is objected to by any qualified citizen, it shall be the duty of the inspectors to examine such person on oath as to his qualifications, and if he claims to have resided in the State for one year or more his oath shall be sufficient proof thereof, but shall make proof by at least one competent witness, who shall be a qualified elector, that he has resided in the district for more than ten days next immediately preceeding such election, and shall also himself swear that his bona fide residence, in pursuance of his lawful calling, is in said district, and that he did not remove into said district for the purpose of voting therein.

Every person qualified as aforesaid, and who shall make due proof, if required, of the residence and payment of taxes as aforesaid, shall be admitted to vote in the township, ward, or district in which he shall reside.

If any person shall prevent or attempt to prevent any officer of any election under this act from holding such election, or use or threaten any violence to any such officer, or shall interrupt or improperly interfere with him in the execution of his duty, or shall block up the window or avenue to any window where the same may be holding, or shall riotously disturb the peace at such election, or shall use any intimidating threats, force or violence, with design to influence unduly or overawe any elector, or to prevent him from voting or to restrain the freedom of choice, such persons, on conviction, shall be fined in any sum not exceeding five hundred dollars, and imprisoned for any time not less than three nor more than twelve months; and if it shall be shown in Court, where the trial of such offence shall be had, that the person so offending was not a resident of the city, ward, district or township where the offence was committed, and not entitled to vote therein, then on conviction he shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than one hundred nor more than one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned not less than six months nor more than two years.

If any person, not by law qualified, shall fraudulently vote at any election of this Commonwealth, or being otherwise qualified shal vote out of his proper district, if any person knowing the want of such qualification, shall aid or procure such person to vote, the person offending, shall on conviction be fined in any sum not exceeding two hundred dollars, and be imprisoned in any term not exceeding three months.

If any one shall vote at more than one election district, or otherwise fraudulently vote more than once on the same day, or shall fraudulently fold and deliver to the inspector two tickets together with intent illegally to vote, or who shall procure another to do so, he or they offending, shall on conviction, be fined in any sum not less than fifty nor more than five hundred dollars, and be imprisoned for a term not less than three nor more than twelve months.

If any person not qualified to vote in this Commonweal h agreeably to law (except the sons of qualified citizens), shall appear at any place of election for the purpose of influencing the citizens qualified to vote, he shall on conviction forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding one hundred dollars for every such offence and be imprisoned for any term not exceeding three months.

REGISTER LAW.

I also give official notice to the electors of Centre county, that, by an act entitled "An Act further supplemental to the act relative to the elections of this Commonwealth," approved April 17, A. D.. 1869, it is provided as follows:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That it shall be the duty of each of the assessors within this Commonwealth, on the first Monday in June of each year, to take up the transcript he has recieved from the county Commissioners under the eighth section of the act of fifteenth April, eighteen hundred and thirty-four, and proceed to an immediate revision of the same by striking therefrom the name of every person who is known by him to have died or removed since the last previous assessment from the district of which he is the assessor, or whose death or removal from the same shall be made known to him, and add to the same the name of any qualified voter who shall be known by him to have moved into the district since the last previous assessments, or whose removal into the same shall have been made known to him and also the names of all who shall make claim to him to be qualified voters therein. As soon as the revision is completed he shall visit every dwelling house in his district and make careful inquiry if any person whose name is on his list has died or removed from the district, and if so, to take the same therefrom, or whether any qualified voter resides therein whose name is not on his list, and if so, to add the same thereto; and in all cases where a name is added to the list a tax shall forthwith be assessed against the person; and the assessor shall in all cases ascertain, by inquiry, upon what ground the person so assessed claims to be a voter. Upon the completion of the work, it shall be the duty of each assessor as aforesaid to proceed to make out a list in alphabetical order, of the white freemen above twenty-one years of age, claiming to be qualified voters in the ward, borough, township or district of which he is the assessor, and opposite each of said names state whether said freeman is or is not a housekeeper; and if he is, the number of its residence, in towns where the same are numbered, with the street, alley or court in which situated and if in a town where there are no numbers, the name of the street, alley or court on which said house fronts; also the occupation of the person, and where he is not a housekeeper, the occupation, place of boarding and with whom, and if working for another, the name of the employer, and write opposite each of said names the word "voter;" where any person claims to vote by reasons of naturalization, he shall exhibit his certificate thereof to the assessor, unless he has been for five consecutive years next preced ng a voter in said district; and in all cases where the person has been naturalized the name shall be marked with the letter "N;" where the person has merely declared his intentions to become a citizen and designs to be naturalized before the next election, the name shall be marked "D. I;" where the claim is to vote by reason of being between the ages of 21 and 22 as provided by law, the word "age" shall be entered; and if a person has moved into the election district to reside since the last general election, the letter "R" shall be placed opposite the name. It shall be the further duty of each assessor as aforesaid, upon the completion of the duties herein imposed, to make out a separate list of all new assessments made by him, and the amount assessed upon each, and furnish the same immediately to the county commissioners, who shall add the names to the tax duplicate of the ward, borough, township or district in which they have been assessed.

SEC. 2. On the list being completed add the assessments made as aforesaid, the same shall forthwith be returned to the county commissioners, who shall cause duplicate copies of said lists, with the observation and explanations required to be noted as aforesaid, to be made but as soon as practicable and placed in the hands of the assessor, who, shall prior to the first of August in each year, put one copy thereof on the door or on the house where election of the respective district is required to be held, and retain the other in his possessions, for the inspection, free of charge of any person resident in the said election district who shall desire to see the same; and it shall be the duty of the said assessor to add from time to time, on the personal application of any one claiming the right to vote, the name of such applicant, and mark opposite each name "C. N.' and immediately assess him with a tax, noting, as in all other cases, his occupation, residence, whether a boarder or housekeeper; if a boarder, with whom he boards; and whether naturalized or designed to be, marking in all such cases the letters opposite the name, "N." or "D. I." as the case may be. If the person claiming to be assessed be naturalized, he shall exhibit to the assessor his certificate of naturalization; and if he claims that he designs to be naturalized before the next ensuing election, he shall exhibit the certificate of his declaration of intention; in all cases where any ward, borough, township or election district is divided into two or more precincts, the assessor shall note in all his assessments the election precinct in which each elector resides and shall make a separate return for each to the county commissioners, in all cases in which a return is required from him by the provisions of this act; and the county commissioners, in making duplicate copies of all such returns shall make duplicate copies of the names of the voters in each precinct, separately, and shall furnish the same to the assessor; and the copies required by this act to be placed on the doors of or on election places on or before the first of August in each year, shall be placed on the door of, or on the election place in each of said precincts.

SEC. 3 After the assessments have been completed on the tenth day preceding the second Tuesday in October of each year, the assessor shall on the Monday immediately following, make a return to the county commissioners of the names of all persons assessed by him since the return required to be made by him by the second section of this act, nothing opposite each name the observation and explanations required to be noted as aforesaid; and the county commissioners shall thereupon cause the same to be added to the return required by the second section of this act, and a full an correct copy thereof to be made, containing the names of all persons so returned as resident taxables in said ward, borough townships, or precinct, and furnish the same, together with the necessary election blanks, to the officers of the election in said ward borough, township, or precinct on or before six o'clock in the morning of the second Tuesday in October, and no man shall be permitted to vote at the election on that day whose name is not on said list, unless he shall make proof of his right to vote, as hereinafter required.

SEC. 11. On the petition of five or more citizens of the county, stating under oath that they verily believe that frauds will be practiced at the election about to be held in any district, it shall be the duty of the court of common pleas of said county, if in session, or if not, a judge thereof in vacation, to appoint two judicious, sober and intelligent citizens of the county to act as overseers shall be selected from different political parties, and where both of said inspectors belong to the same political party, both of the overseers shall be taken from the opposite political party; said overseers shall have the right to be present with the officers of the election, during the whole time the same is held, the votes counted and the returns made out and signed by the election officers, to keep a list of voters, if they see proper; to challenge any person offering to vote, and interrogate him and his witness under oath, in regard to his right of suffrage at said election, and to examine his papers produced; and the officers of said election are required to afford to said overseers so selected and appointed every convinience and facility for the discharge of their duties; and if said election officers shall refuse to permit said overseers to be present, and perform their duties as aforesaid, or if they shall be driven away from the polls by violence and intimidation, all the votes polled at such election district may be rejected by any tribunal trying a contest under said election: Provided, That no person signing the petition shall be appointed an overseer.

SEC. 12. If any prothonotary, clerk, or the deputy of either, or any person, shall, affix the seal of office to any naturalization paper, or permit the same to be affixed, or give out, or cause or permit the same to be given out in blank, whereby it may be fraudulently used, or furnish a naturalization certificate to any person who shall not have been duly examined and sworn in open court, in the presence of some of the judges thereof, according to act of Congress, or shall aid in, connive at, or in any way permit the issue of any fraudulent naturalization certificate, he shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor; or if any one shall fraudulently use any such certificate of naturalization, knowing that it was fraudulently issued, or shall vote, or attempt to vote thereon, or if any one shall vote or attempt to vote on any certificate of naturalization not issued to him, he shall be guilty of a high misdemeanor; and either or any of the persons, their aiders or abettors, guilty of either of the misdemeanors aforesaid, shall, on conviction, be fined in a sum not exceeding one thousand dollars, and imprisoned in the proper penitentiary for a period not exceeding three years.

SEC. 13. Any person who on oath or affirmation, in or before any court of this State, or officer authorized to administer oaths, shall, to procure a certificate of naturalization, for himself or any other person, wilfully depose, declare or affirm any matter to be fact, knowing the same to be false, or shall in like manner deny any matter to be fact knowing the same to be true, shall be deemed guilty of perjury; and any certificate of naturalization issued in pursuance of any such deposition, declaration or affirmation, shall be null and void; and it shall be the duty of the court issuing the same, upon proof being made before it, that it was fraudulently obtained to take immediate measures for recalling the same for concellation, and any person who shall vote, or attempt to vote, on any paper so obtained, or who shall in any way aid in, connive at, or have any agency whatever in the issue, circulation or use of any fraudulent naturalization certificates, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor; and upon conviction thereof shall undergo an imprisonment in the penitentiary for not more than two years, and pay a fine not more than one thousand dollars, for every such offense, or either or both, at the discretion of the court.

THE GREATEST PRODUCTION OF INVENTIVE GENIUS, POINTS OF SUPRIORITY, BEAUTY, CONVENIENCE & DURABILITY. IT WILL LAST A LIFE TIME.

ALL of its wearing parts are made of hardened steel, has no Cog Wheels to Break or Rattle; great adjustability, (self-adjusting take-up) adjustable needle-head, will sew light or heavy goods perfect; makes the nicest hem or fell; will gather and sew on, Cord, Tuck, Braid, Binde, Embroider, or will do any kind of work, even make Crotchet Work Perfect.

This Machine makes the celebrated Lock-stitch—the stitch invented by Mr. Howe—alike on both sides. The shuttle tension is upon the thread as it leaves the shuttle, and not upon the bobbin, as in most machines; and this tension is invariable whether the bobbin be full or nearly empty. It is obtained by turning a screw in the shuttle, and can be changed in a moment, without taking out the work, breaking the thread, or threading through holes.—This Machine is now hung on hinges, and the trouble of taking it from the table to clean and oil obviated.

What we claim, in substance, is, that this is an Honest Machine, and if put in your family, will do any and all of your work perfectly, will last a lifetime, is a willing and ready servant, and is no subject to FITS.

Persons who have tried all machines are unanimous in declaring this to be the easiest learned of any in the market. In the majority of cases customers learn from the instruction book without further aid.

This Machine is now for sale in your county by Traveling Agents. If you are not called on by them, and you want the Best Machine for the amount of money you pay out, please address I. F. Hoofland's Germaa Bitters.

A Bitters without Alcohol or Spirits of any kind.

Is different from all others. It is composed of the pure Juices, or VITAL PRINCIPLE OF ROOTS, HERBS, and BARKS, (or, as medicinally termed, Extracts,) the worthless or inert portions of the ingredients not being used. Therefore in one Bottle of this Bitters there is contained as much medicinal virtue as will be found in several gallons or ordinary mixtures. The Roots, &c., used in this Bitters are grown in Germany, their vital principles extracted in that country by a scientific Chemist, and forwarded to the manufactory in this city, when they compounded and bottled. Containing no spirituous ingredients, this Bitters is free from the objections urged against all others: no desire for stimulants can be induced from their use, they cannot make drunkards, and cannot under any circumstances, have any but a beneficial effect.

Hoofland's German Tonic.

Was compounded for those not inclined to extreme bitters, and is intended for use in cases when some alcoholic stimulant is required in connection with the Tonic properties of the Bitters. Each bottle of the tonic contains one bottle of the Bitters, combined with pure SANTA CRUZ RUM, and flavored in such a manner that the extreme bitterness of the bitters is overcome forming a preparation highly agreeable and pleasant to the palate, and containing the medicinal virtues of the Bitters. The price of the Tonic is $1,50 per Bottle, which many persons think too high. They must take into consideration that the stimulant used is guaranteed to be of a pure quality. A poor article could be furnished at a cheaper price, but is it not better to pay a little more and have a good article? A medicinal preparation should contain none but the best ingredients; and they who expect to obtain a cheap compound, and be benefittad by it, will most certainly be cheated.

SPEAR FOR THESE REMEDIES.
Who would ask for more Dignified or Stronger Testimony?

HON. GEORGE W. WOODWARD, formerly Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania at present Member of Congress from Pennsylvania, writes:

PHILADELPHIA, March 16, 1871.

I find "Hoofland's German Bitters" is a good tonic, useful in diseases of the digestive organs, and of great benefit in case of debility and want of nervous action in the system. Yours, truly,
GEO. W. WOODWARD.

HON, JAS. THOMPSON, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania,

PHILADELPHIA, April 28, 1867.

I consider "Hoofland's German Bitters" a valuable medicine in case of attacks of indigestion or Dyspepsia. I can certify this from my own experience of it.
Yours, with respect, JAS. THOMPSON.

HON. GEORGE SHARSWOOD, Justice of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.

PHILADELPHIA, June 1, 1868.

I have found by experience that "Heofland's German Bitters" is a very good tonic, relieving dyspeptic symptoms almost directly.
GEORGE SHARSWOOD

HON. JAS. M. WOOD, Ex-Mayor of Williamsport, Pa.

I take great pleasure in recommending "Hoofland's German Tonic" to any one who may be afflicted with Dyspepsia. I had the Dyspepsia so badly it was impossible to keep any food on my stomach, and I became so weak, as not to be able to walk half a mile. Two bottles of Tonic effected a perfect cure. JAMES M. WOOD.

REMEMBER
THAT
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS,
AND
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN TONIC,
Will Cure every Case of
MARASMUS,
Or Wasting away of the Body.
REMEMBER
THAT
HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES

Are the medicines you require to purify the Blood, excite the torpid Liver to healthy action, and to enable you to pass safely through any hardships or exposure.

DR. HOOFLAND'S
PODOPHYLLIN,
Or Substitue for Mercury Pills.
TWO PILLS A DOSE.
The Most Powerful, Yet Innocent Vegetable Cathartic Known.

It is not necessary to take a handful of these Pills to produce the desired effect; two of them act quickly and powerfully, cleansing the Liver, Stomach and Bowels all impurities. The principal ingredient is Podophyllin, or the Alcoholic Extract of Mandrake, which is by many times more powerful, acting and searching than the Mandrake itself. Its peculiar action is upon the Liver, cleaning it speedily from all obstructions, with all the power of Mercury, yet free from the injurious results attached to the use of that mineral.

For all diseases, in which the use of a cathartic is indicated, these pills will give entire satisfaction in every case. They NEVER FAIL.

In cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia and extreme costiveness, Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters or Tonic should be used in connection with the Pills. The tonic effect of the Bitters or Tonic builds up the system. The Bitters or Tonic purifies the Blood, strengthens the Nerves, REGULATES the Liver, and gives strength, energy and vigor.

Keep your Bowels active with the Pills, and tone up the system with Bitters or Tonic, and no disease can retain its hold, or ever assail you.

Recollect that it is DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN REMEDIES that are so universally used and highly recommended; and do not allow the Druggist to induce you to take anything else that he may say is just as good, because he makes a larger profit on it. These Remedies will be sent by Express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 631 Arch St., Philadelphia.

WHAT LOYAL MEN THINK OF GREELEY'S ELECTION.

Wendell Phillips, in his review of the situation, says:

"An old friend, now residing in Georgia, who stood, rifle in hand, in Kansas all through that fight, told me, just after the Cincinnati convention:

"'Sir, before Grant arrested those twenty Ku-klux in North Carolina I never slept without a loaded musket at my bed-head, and never ventured into the village unless full armed. Since that stern interference in North Carolina I, even afar off in Georgia, sleep and walk about as safe, careless, and free as you do here.'"

"If Greeley is elected, I suppose,' said I, 'you'd load those revolvers again."

"Never. I know by southern boast what that election means. I'll never risk living in Georgia under Greeley—I'll sell out and come North."

This is what the election of Greeley means to southern loyalists, and yet loyal men are to be found in the North who think that the triumph of Greeley means peace and reconciliation throughout the South. Many of these loyal friends of Mr. Greeley have already opened their eyes to the truth. We trust all will see the drift of the movement by November, and lend their influence for the election of the only man now before the people who can give perfect security to every law-abiding citizen in the land. The loyal North saved the nation, let it not be said that it deserted the loyal people of the South in their hour of trial. The election of Greeley means anarchy in the South and financial disaster in the North. The election of Grant means peace everywhere, and a continuance of the prosperity which has blessed the nation since his elevation to office.

GRANT AND WILSON.

We meet to-night, prepared to fight
For victory once more;
We proudly come, with torch and drum,
And the loud cannon's roar;
We'll raise a note from every throat,
And sing a hearty chant;
Let's all unite to shout and fight
For Wilson and for Grant!
CHORUS—For Wilson and for Grant, my boys!
For Wilson and for Grant;
Let's all unite to shout and fight
For Wilson and for Grant!

Let "soreheads" growl and loudly howl
For Greeley and for Brown,
But never fear, we'll raise a cheer,
That will their voices drown;
Let Horace teach, and Sumner preach;
Let Schurz and Davis rant.
We'll all unite to shout and fight
For Wilson and for Grant!
For Wilson and for Grant, my boys!
For Wilson and for Grant!
We'll all unite to shout and fight
For Wilson and for Grant!

The Boys in Blue are always true,
And Grant has been their pride.
From Vicksburg's height to Richmond's fight,
He's been their friend and guide!
Then let's unite, all hands to-night,
To sing the people's chant,
And it shall be full three times three
For Wilson and for Grant!
For Wilson and for Grant, my boys!
For Wilson and for Grant,
And it shall be full three times three
For Wilson and for Grant!

Politics in the Family.

The Cleveland Leader of July 25 says: "We doubt if the horrors of the present political campaign will ever be brought more directly home or result in a sadder case of domestic infelicity than that which we record below. Most of our citizens have seen the campaign Greeley fans with which the city is flooded, and since their introduction every boot-black and news boy in the city as well as older persons are familiar with the ruddy features of the axe-slinger of Chappaqua, as they appear surrounded with a halo of white wool, and affixed to a stick for wind for the propelling purposes. As a correct likeness of the most aspiring aspirant for the Presidental chair that ever lived they are a success, and if our readers have any desire to make the picture more vivid, let them follow the instructions of an eastern poet who says:

Would you see the face of H. G. aright?
Take your study lamp and put out the light;
Stand up aginst it the Greeley fan—
And a white felt hat, and behold the man!

But to our story. Residing upon one of our prettiest thoroughfares is a man named Stringer, who has from the very moment when the Cincinnati Convention became known allowed all the spare wind that escaped from his political bellows to shape itself into shouts for Greeley. His wife, who is young and pretty, and naturally partakes of his views in a political sense, knowing of his intense admiration of the Graham bread philosopher, purchased one of the new Greeley fans, the other day, while out shopping, and took it home to surprise her husband.

Owing to a convivial meeting that evening, where confusion to the administration was drunk in sparkling bumpers of champagne, by Stringer and a few boon companions, the former did not return to his happy home until midnight. His wife, who had retired to bed at the usual hour after fanning herself for an hour or two with her purchase of the afternoon, finally laid it over on her spouse's pillow and dropped off to sleep. Stringer entered his house without making any noise, took off his boots, softly ascended the stairs to his wife's apartments, entered and was about to disrobe for the night, when oh! horrors, what a sight met his slightly inebriated gaze. There, reeing upon his pillow, he saw the features of a bald-headed, gray-haired man, whose flushed features betokened guilt and poor liquor—Stringer smelled a rat larger than an elephant; he saw it all at a glance. He had entered so still that he had surprised the scoundrel.

His wife snored a peaceful snore, and that angered him still more, and without stopping to think whether he was sufficiently insane or not, the wronged and miserable Stringer pulled out his pistol and fired two shots through the head of the aged rascal. The noise awoke Mrs. Stringer, who shrieked. The gas was turned up, and with his thirst for blood still unquenched, Stringer saw—that he had made an ass of himself. He tried to make his wife believe it was a joke: that he knew it was Greeley when he first came into the room, and was willing to stand "anything to beat Grant: but his wife said that story had not the requisite thickness, and told a neighbor's wife, who attended sewing society the next day, and so it got out.

JOHN F. HARTRANFT was the first Auditor General of Pennsylvania who busied himself sufficiently in the interests of the people, to recommend the repeal of a specific tax levy. Every owner of a farm and a house owes the repeal of the tax on real estate to Hartranft's direct influence, because he recommended and personally urged its repeal in the Legislature.

OUR SPRING.—If we were a part of the Town Council we would work hard to have that body pass an ordinance, declaring that all ducks and geese and other aquatic fowls that loaf around and use the Spring as a swimming pond, should be considered ferae naturae, and hence the property of every boy or man who is capable of capturing them by any fair or foul means. The filth accumulating about and in the Spring because of their inhabiting it, is an outrage, and the thing should be stopped. Let our borough Rulers look to it at once.

SPECIAL COURT.—The Special Court called to convene on Monday last for the trial of the case of the Commonwealth vs. Hickye indicted for murder, was a sort of a faux pas, as the power of the court to adjourn a court of Oyer and Terminer is of doubtful authority. So the jurors were all discharged on Monday and the case above named lies over until the regular November Term. Several cases were argued, and petitions and motions heard. The argumant of the motion for a new trial in the case of the Commonwealth vs. J. A. Lukens convicted of murder in the Second degree at the last term, was post poned until Nov. 9th next, because of the absence of Hon. W. A. Wallace one of the Commonwealths counsel in the trial of the case.

The court adjourned on Tuesday afternoon until Saturday the 9th of November next. Such little slips as the calling of this court, and the summoning of jurors, for nicht, is rather an expensive luxury to the tax payers of Centre county. Who is the cause why?

For the REPUBLICAN.

OUR HURRIED TRIP TO PHILIPSBURG.

The admirer of grand and beautiful Mountain Scenery, can hardly favor himself with a more extensive, and richer view than that which greets his eye in crossing the Alleghanies on the Tyrone and Clearfield Railroad. When you leave the Bald Eagle Valley, you begin at once the ascent o. the mountain, climbing up towards its summit, on rail, at some points at the rate of one hundred and fifty seven feet to the mile, by a meandering course that encircles projecting spurs of the mountain, and then carries you parallel with deep ravines and gorges, the whole presenting a view for extent, variedness, and beauty, and grandeur, that is unrivaled in the east, and surpassed in the west among the Rocky Mountains in magnitude only. When you arrive at Mount Pleasant the train stops some seven minutes to take water, and give one an opportunity to strain the eye in an effort to compass the pleasing and grand prospect that here stretches out before you. At this point you cross a ravine over two hundred feet in depth, on a fill, known as "The Big Fill," and have a commanding view of the gorges, ravines and mountain spurs, extending many miles below into the valley, and as they recede from the eye they temper in abruptness and curvature so os to produce a most harmonious and pleasing sensation, and with the richness of the interchanging foliage, the whole presents a scene entrancing in its effect and, which would transfix you to the spot as it were, so that when the train moves off, you experience a slight feeling of sadness, only that the impression may be deepened and made the more lasting.

When you arrive at the Summit you run right into the midst of a throng of puffing and snorting engines, that seem to be on dress parade, and the involuntary inquiry is, What does all this array of power and enginery mean? The answer is, that this road penetrates one of the richest coal and lumber districts in the State, of which the coal interest is in its incipient stages of development, and which constitutes the road one of the best feeders of the main line of the Pennsylvania R. R. Hence the ponderous freights of coal and lumber moved over this road, with its steep grades and short curvatures, account satisfactorily for the training of so many iron steeds. And here we may remark that the road under the management of Geo. C. Wilkins, Esq., the Superintendent of the Tyrone Division of the Pennsylvania R. R., is kept in the best repair, and its condition always improving, and its capacity continually being enlarged. So well is it regulated and controlled, that the travelling public need feel no alarm by anticipating collisions, and the trains are so well manned by gentlemanly and carefnl crews, who always consult the pleasure and convenience of their passengers, that you experience nothing but pleasure in passing over the route. Freights of a hundred cars in a train, heavily ladened with coal and lumber pass over the road daily, and despite the short curves and steep grades, so skillfully, and admirably is it managed, that an accident is rarely known, and a wreck is a matter of curiosity; which shows that the mind, that, guides and controls it, is a power of the right kind, and in the right place.

From the Summit you next haul up at Sandy Ridge, where you see the enterprising firm of Miller & Son, manipulating the Fire Clay, which abounds in that region, into fire brick of a quality, that have nosuperrior, and which have acquired a reputation of being the best in the country. This firm is enlarging its works, to double their original capacity. Before you are out of sight of Sandy Ridge, the steam whistle informs you that Powelton is at hand. Here you walk out on to the platform, and witness rows of houses runing at irregular angles, inhabited by the miners who delve deeply into the surrounding hills, and bring forth the black wealth which they teem. The next place that commands your notice is Osceola, a town situated in Clearfield county, the dividing line between it and Centre county, being the Moshanon Creek, intervenes between the town and Railroad. It is a place of thrifty growth, of about eight years, now numbering some twelve hundred inhabitants, and wears a constant mien of business, push and enterprise, that augurs well for the continued growth and prosperity of the place. The firm of White & Lingle, run the coal operations in a business way, that pays; and the Moshannon Lumber Company, turns out immense quantities of all kinds of Manufactured lumber, and don't know what it is to let up. W. D. Rikard, Esq., formerly of Bellefonte, runs the best Hotel in the place, and as usual has established a reputation for being the most genial, jolly and entertaining Landlord in all the town. His guests never lack for comfort and attention. After passing a num- of mills, huge piles of lumber and coal mines, you stop at Philipsburg. You learn at once that it is a town next in population, and all that makes a town, to Bellefonte the County seat, and hence the second town in the county. When you stop in Philipsburg you never question, but go direct to the Railroad House kept by Robert Loyd, Esq., who is known to be one of the most polite, and courteous hosts in the county, and spares no paines to make his House inviting, and his guests comfortable and happy.

In Philipsburg you shake hands with a good natured, whole souled, enterprising people. Its business interests are chiefly those of lumber and coal, which are in a threfty and progressive condition. The large Steam Tannery near the town, run by Munson, White & Co., is said to be doing a good business, and is being run exclusively in the interest of men's "soles." Politically, Philipsburg is the livest Republican town in the county, and Republicans there are earnest and efficient workers, and intend giving for Grant and Wilson, in November, seventy five or a hundred majority. We believe they will do it. Any one who wishes to obtain some knowledge of the mineral, and lumber wealth of Centre county; and some knowledge of the beauty of its mountain scenry, wants to travel through it via the Tyrone and Clearfield Railroad.

(Reported for the REPUBLICAN.)

OBITUARY.—Charles H. Hale, who died on Thursday morning, the 3d inst., at the residence of his mother, his home, in this place, was born in Bellefonte, June 20th, 1837. After finishing his education, he studied law in his fathers' office, and was admitted to the bar in 1859. He practiced his profession with fair success up till the breaking out of the rebellion, when he enlisted with the "Bellefonte Fencibles," a military company which had been organized and commanded by Gov. A. G. Curtin, for some time previous, and which joined the 2nd Pa. Regiment. This Regiment was the 2nd that reported from Pennsylvania to Washington City after the beginning of the rebellion.

After serving three months, he was tranferred to the 19th U. Regulars, with the rank of 1st Lieutenant. Shortly after, he was transferred to General Sturgiss' staff with the rank of Captain, and successively transferred to General Stonemen's staff and the staff of Gen'l Burbridge, of Kentucky, where he served until the close of the war, when he resigned his commission as Captain in the Regular Army, and returned to his home.

During the war he served his country faithfully, as an efficient and capable officer and a gallant soldier.

On his return from the army, he did not resume the active practice of his profession, but so far as his health would permit, which has been precarious ever since, and up to the time of his decease, he has devoted himself to the study of general literature, possessing himself with a fund of general and historic information such as few but seldom acquire.

Nature endowed him with a brilliant intellect, good mind, and a tact that are the rare enjoyments and qualities of the few. By constant study he had so improved his natnral talents and acquired a rich store of information, which he communicated in the most affable and entertaining manner, interspersing it with a brilliancy of wit that commandthe attention and admiration of all who heard, that he enjoyed the enviable reputation of being the genial and commanding center of his social circle. Naturally of a liberal mind, kind heart and obliging disposition, he scarcely knew what it was to be selfish, and would readily sacrifice personal comfort and interest for another's good and enjoyment.

In his untimely death, our town has lost one of its most genial spirits and highest intellects; his mother, brothers and sisters suffered a bereavement that claims the sympathy and condolence of all friends. J.

For the REPUBLICAN.

PHILIPSBURG, Oct. 12th, 1872.

COL. W. W. BROWN:

DEAR SIR:—We had a grand Jubilee here to-night over our late victory and the down fall of treason. Over two hundred Republicans in procession, and all the Republican houses in town brilliantly illuminated. After the procession had moved over the principal streets of our town, we halted in front of Lloyd's hotel, when J. G. Love, Esq., of your town appeared and delivered a soul stirring speech, which was enthusiastically cheered by the noble men who assisted in elevating Gen. John F. Hartranft to the Gubernatorial chair, and who will continue to do the good work until Gen. Grant is re-elected to the Presidency and the Republican party triumphant in November next.

Respectfully,

"WHOOP 'ER UP."

THE FALLING LEAVES.—The falling leaves, as well as the pathetic cries that are so often heard besides the open grave, eloquently proclaim that change and decay are the law which controls everything around us. The lovely flowers which exhaled their fragrance on every breeze and many of the beloved associates of bygone days have drooped and died, and their beautiful forms gladden our eyes no more. The changing seasons which produce such marvelous scenes as we often gaze upon, first with delight and anon with sadness, should remind us of the changes of this mortal life. Happy at life's close shall we be if we have wisely improved our allotted time.

GO AND TILL YOUR LITTLE FARM.

Democratic glee clubs are practicing on the following since the "tidal wave" of Republicanism swept over the State on the 8th of October:

AIR—Put Me in My Little Bed.

Oh, Greeley, we are tired now,
We do no care to hear your jaw;
Take back your dark and dismal bird,
And make it cease its mournful caw.
You're tiresome, too, as you can be,
Your windy talk has lost its charm,
And you are but a stupid bore;
So go and till your little farm.

CHORUS—Go, Greeley, go! Leave us alone!
Your windy talk has lost its charms;
We're ready now to vote for Grant;
So go and till your little farm.

You cannot straighten crooked things,
But make them worse the more you try;
Some people think that you are crazed,
And some have even said you lie.
A red-hot Union man up North
A friend of Rebels in the South,
You make a fearful mix of things,
And you had better shut your mouth.

CHORUS—Go, Greeley, go! Leave us alone! &c.

Your spectacles were never made
'To look at politics aright,
Although yourself they may deceive,
And make you think that black is white,
Go, Greeley, go! You've talked too much,
As 'round the circle you have swung;
The people have been bored enough,
And you had better hold your tongue.

CHORUS—Go, Greeley, go! Leave us alone! &c.

We can not be induced to like
The most alluring dish of crow,
That little chasm of yours has made
A very small and shabby show.
Go, Greeley, go! November comes,
And you should keep your gas till then,
When you must rust your little desk,
And labor with your little pen.

CHORUS—Go, Greeley, go! Leave us alone! &c

THE following extract from a lette of a correspondent to the Cincinnati Commercial may be of interest to any of our readers who may be contemplating making investments in railroad securities:

"Let the readers take a good map of the West and carefully scan the route of the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western Railroad and its feeders. Stretching from Indianapolis to Peoria, through what an ex President of the Ohio State Board of Agriculture assured me is the richest vast section of farming land in the world, a distance of 212 miles; thence controling northwestwardly the Peoria and Rock Island and the Davenport and St. Paul Railroads, which pass through a country as beautiful and as marvelously rich as the other. The whole distance is over six hundred miles, and the country looks like a garden all the way. Such fields of corn, and wheat, and oats, and grass I never saw elsewhere. There are not wanting droves of fine blooded cattle, such as one sees in the Blue Grass region of Kentucky, and countless hogs—enough, one would suppose, for the entire Gentile world. Nor must I overlook the attractive farm houses, the extensive orchards, loaded with fruit, and the thriving cities and villages, which one expects to find only in old settled districts. The whole is most extraordinary, and at present the railroad facilities are not sufficient to carry to market the surplus fatness. That difficulty will be removed soon, and then let Cincinnati open her store houses and increase the number of her elevators.

"But this is only a part of the story. The owners of the Indianapolis, Bloomington and Western Railroad have now nearly completed a branch to Decatur, and are building another from Danville up to Paxton, on the Illinois Central, and a main line from Champaign, via Havana to the Mississippi River. It has not been so announced by those concerned, but I think I can see that the point to be reached is Quincy, and that the Hannibal and St. Joseph Road will be found eventually in this ring, bringing Kansas City, Leavenworth and the Kansas Pacific Railroad next door to Cincinnati. Keokuk will be reached by a branch, and form the link that will connect the East with the road passing through Northern Missouri and Nebraska—the Midland Road—which has been built through the management of Mr. B. E. Smith, the railroad king of Ohio, a man whose success in life has been as remarkable as it is well deserved.

"Here you have a network of roads under one control covering the finest sections of country in the 'boundless West,' capable of feeding the world."

W. N. Coler & Co., of New York, report a constantly increasing demand for good bonds of counties, townships, cities and school districts. See their advertisement.

SAYS the New York Commercial Advertiser: We were informed before the election that "Curtin's popularity" was "amazing." It is but just now to add that there is only one thing more "amazing" than Curtin's popularity, and that is Forney's political influence.

IN Bradford county, Hartranft only falls five votes behind the majority for Auditor General last year. The Liberals, after all their roaring, made but a sorry showing in Bradford.

HOW TO GO WEST.—This is an enquiry which every one should have truthfully answered before he starts on his journey, and a little care taken in examination of Routes will in many cases save much trouble, time and money.

The "C., B. & Q. R. R.," running from Chicago, through Galesburg to Burlington, and the "I., B. & W. Route," running from Indianapolis, through Bloomington to Burlington, have achieved a splendid reputation in the last two years as the leading Passenger Routes to the West. At Burlington they connect with the B. & M. R. R. and from the great Burlington Route, which runs direct through Southern Iowa to Nebraska and Kansas, with close connections to California and the Territories; and passengers starting from Centre County, on their way westward, cannot do better than to take the BURLINGTON ROUTE.

'This Line has published a pamphlet called "How to go West," which contains much valuable information; a large correct map of the Great West, which can be obtained free of charge by addressing the General Passenger Agent B. & M. R. R., Burlington, Iowa. no-28-4-mo.

THE Chicago Times says: "Hurrah for our side!" lustily shouts the virtuous Forney. "We have won a glorious victory, and Greeley's doom is sealed. True, too true, I mildly criticized his excellency Governor Hartranft, but it was all for his good. Behold how we have elected our candidate! I have, I must confess, challenged sundry acts of Mr. Grant's administration, but now that his re-election is certain, I shall support him to the best of my ability. Hurrah for Grant!" Independent Forney! It is plain to be seen that Mr. Andrew G. Curtin is not the only man in Pennsylvania who likes to be on the winning side."

☞ BY ONE OF THE LEADING PHYSICIANS of Philadelphia city.—A careful examination of mortuary statistics establishes the fact that one adult person out of every six dies of consumption, and so alarmingly is this disease gaining the ascendancy over all other ills to which flesh is heir, that its approach to one's immediate circle is regarded with perfect horror. If you will carefully examine the records of Materia Medica you will invariably discover that the general want of success in treating diseases has not been a deficiency of pathological knowledge of the functions affected, but of a suitable compound that would act upon the disease and all the sympathetic affections.

This want has at last been met in the Bitter Wine of Iron, prepared by the celebrated Dr. E. F. Kunkel, No 259 North Ninth street, Philadelphia. This excellent compound can be taken by persons with the most delicate stomach without any debilitating effect always giving strength and largely increasing the nervous energy of the patient. In all cases of pulmonary complaints it is admirably adapted to relieve the severity of the symptoms in the advanced stages of the disease, or to arrest it in its incipiency. If you want something that will give you strength, a good appetite, build up your constitution, and in place of morose nervousness and lack of energy, give you a brisk and vigorous feeling, try Kunkel's Bitter Wine of Iron. It has already received the meed of praise from thousands who have tested its virtues, and for many years maintained its reputation with unabated popularity.

Price $1 per bottle. E. F. KUNKEL, Sole Proprietor, No 259 North Ninth street, below Vine, Philadelphia.
